Being INVISIBLE is the same as being
ANONYMOUS on the Internet!

No one knows who you are - you can be young or old, male or female, good or bad, horrible or nice ... and often who or what you are depends on how you feel at the time, happy, sad, angry, frustrated, boiling hot, ill, contented, wanting to get back at someone ...

HOW do YOU feel at the minute? I feel

So if you would be good or bad, happy or sad, helpful or hurtful if YOU were invisible and anonymous, then so can others and maybe even MORE than you?

What do you think about that?
Agree / Disagree?

And maybe you might be kind one time and hurtful another?

What do you think about that?
Agree / Disagree?

If you can be nice or nasty, kind or hurtful at different times, then so can others.

By asking someone to comment on you anonymously, you are allowing them to release their nasty trollish side and to work off all their annoyances with other people on you! So who are YOU inviting in?
